DAILY GAZETTE.

Progress of the President Elect.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22. The ceremony of raising a flag of thirty-four stars over the Hall of Independence this morning by Mr. Lincoln, was attended with all the solemnity due such an occasion, the scene being an impressive one. At the rising of the sun, crowds of people streamed from all parts of the city towards the State House, and very soon every inch of ground was occupied, a vast number of ladies being present. The weather was cool and bracing.
At seven o'clock Mr. Lincoln was escont-ed to the hall, and there received by Theo-dore Cuyler, who ushered him into its "ven-erable wall in the hour of national peril and distress, when the great work achieved by the wisdom and patriotism of our fathers seems threatened with instant ruin.

Mr. Lincoln responded, as follows:

Mr. Cuyler: I am filled with deep emotion at finding myself standing here, in, this place, where were collected together the wisdom, the patriotism, the devotion to principle, from which sprang the institutions under which we live. You have kindly uggested that on my hand is the task of estoring peace to the present distraction of the country. I can say in return, air, that all the political sentiments I entertain have een drawn, so far as I have been able to fraw them, from the sentiments which orignated and were given to the would from his hall. I have never had a feeling, politically, that did not spring from the senti-ments embodied in the Declaration of Independence. I have often pondered on the dangers which were incurred by the men who assembled here and framed and adopted that Declaration of Independence. have pondered over the toils that were endured by the officers and soldiers of the army who achieved that independence. I have often enquired of myself what great principle or idea it was that kept this confederacy so long together. It was not the mere matter of the separation of the colonies from the mother land, but that senti-ment in the Declaration of Independence which gave liberty, not alone to the people of this country, but I hope to the world and all future time. [Great applause.] It was that which gave promise that in due time the weight would be lifted from the shoulders of all men. This is a sentiment embodied in the Declaration of Independence. Now, my friends, can this country be saved upon that basis? If it can, I will consider myself one of the happiest men in the world if I can help to save it. If it cannot be saved upon that principle, it will be truly tawful; but if this country cannot be saved without giving up that principle, I was about to say I would rather be assassinated on the spot than surrender it. [Applause.] Now, in my view of the present aspect of affairs, there need he no bloodshed unless it be of Almighty God, to die by.

Mr. Lincoln concluded amid great applause. The members of the city council paid their respects to him, and the procession moved directly towards the platform erected in front of the state house. On Mr. Lincoln's appearance on the platform, he was hailed with outbursts of applause made a brief address to raise the flag. Mr. Lincoln replied in a patriotic speech, offering a cheerful compliance with the request. He alluded to the original flag of thirteen stars, saying that the number had increased as time rolled on and we became a happy, powerful people with salute and cheers.

At Downington he spoke briefly.

At Lancaster thirty-four guns were fired and Mr. Lincoln was conducted to the Cald well House. In reply to an address of welcome he said, he didn't appear to make a speech. "It is well-known that the more a man speaks, the less be understands. The more he says one thing, his adversaries contend he meant something else."

HARRISBURG, Feb. 22. The train arrived at 2 o'clock, and was re ceived with salute and cheers. The town was extensively decorated with bunting.

Mr. Lincoln was escorted by the military o the Jones House where he was introduced to a crowd of about 5,000 by Gov. Curtin; who welcomed him to the capital of the state, and said in case reconciliation fails they will be ready to aid by men and money to maintain the constitution. Mr. Lincoln returned thanks, and in re-fering to the distraction of the country, trusted a resort to arms may never become necessary. To avert that calamity he must be sustained by the people. He brought an earnest heart to the work, and it should be no fault of his if he failed.

The president proceeded to the capitol, and was welcomed by speeches to the senate and house. Mr. Lincoln responded as foliows: I appear before you only for very few brief remarks, in response to what has been said to me. I thank you most sincerely for this reception, and the generous words in which support has been promised me on this occasion. I thank your great commonwealth for the overwhelming support it recently gave, not me personally, but the cause I think a just one, in the late elecon. [Applause.].

Allusion has been made to the fact, the tion.

interesting fact, perhaps we should say, that I for the first time appear at the capital of the great commonwealth of Pennsylvania on the birthday of the father of our coun try. In connection with that beloved anniversary, connected with the history of this country, I have already gone through, this morning, the ceremonies at Philadelphia under the kind conduct of gentlemen there. I was for the first time allowed the privi-ilege of standing in old Independence Hall to have a few words addressed to me there and opening up to me an opportunity of expressing, with much regret, that I had not more time to express something of my own feelings that had been really the feelings of my whole life. Besides this, our

the head of the staff, [applause] and when it went up I was pleased that it went to its place by the strength of my own feeble arm. When, according to the arrangement, the cord was pulled and it floated gloriously to the breeze without an accident, in the light of the glowing sunshine of the morn-ny, at least somethig of an omen of what is to come; nor could I help feeling then, as I have often felt, that in the whole of that proceeding I was a very humble in-strument. I had not provided the flag. I had not made the arrangement for elevating it to the place. I had applied but a very small portion even of my feeble strength in the whole transaction. I was n the hands of the people who had arranged it, and if I can have the same generous co-operation of the people of the nation, I nas been said about the military support the general government may expect from the commonwealth of Pennsylvania in any proper emergency. To guard against any possible mistake do I recur to this. It is possible mistake doi recur to this. At is, not with any pleasure that I contemplate the possibility that the necessity may arise in the country to use the military arm.

[Applause.] While I am exceedingly gratified to see manifestations upon pour streets of your military force here, and especially gratified at your promise here to use that force upon proper emergency, while I make these acknowledgements; I desire to repeat, in order to preclude any possible misconstruction, that I do most sincerely hope we shall have no use for them. [Loud applause.] That it will never become their duty to shed blood, and most especially never to shed fraternal blood. I promise that in so far as I may have wisdom to direct, if so painful a result shall be brought about, it shall be through no fault of mine

Cheers 1 Allusion has also been made by one of your honored speakers to some remarks recently made by myself at Pittsburgh in regard to what is supposed to be the especial interest of the great commonwealth of Penisylvania. I mow wish only to say in regard to that matter, that the few remarks which I uttered on that occasion were rather carefully worded, and I have seen no occasion since to add to them or substract from them. I leave them precisely as they stood, [apof Pennsylvania, which is significant they are satisfactory to you. And now gentlemen of the general assembly of the comto return to you my most sincere thanks. Speaker Palmer delivered an oration for the day which was enthusiastically receiv ed. Mr. Lincoln retired to the hotel, and

The Madness that Rules in the South.

The telegraph news of the conspiracy to assassinate Mr. Lincoln, his family and friends, is so horrible and satanic in its nature that the public hesitate to give it full credence. But the madness and ferocity which has characterized the secessionists, in so many instances, within the past few months, leads us unwillingly to give credence to this report. Baltimore has had the reputation for many years of containing the most lawless population in the Union. Scarcely an election has taken place there, in which blood has not been shed and lives lost; this bloodthirsty spirit finds congeniality in secession and disunion, and it is easy to imagine it intensified by the troubles of the times to that degree which would lead to the commission of the atrocious crime of assassinating the president elect, his family and friends. It cannot be disguised that prudent men, all over the country, have felt that Mr. Lincoln would be in danger, when he passed through Baltimore, but the majority were more confident and hopeful, and believed there was no danger. There was a feeling of relief in the minds of many when they learned that he had arrived in Washington, though his safe passage was obtained by concealment and secrecy.

The publication of this news stirs the blood of the people. If this proposed wholesale assassination, founded upon so wide-spread a conspiracy, involving names of men of wealth and station, is true, it is time that we should prepare for war. Let the peace convention adjourn, and in its erms in their hands, to protect the constituted authorities of the nation, and to punish all traitors.

Such an army can be had in twenty-four hours if called for; and let traitors harm a hair of Mr. Lincoln's head, and such an army will assemble without being called .--The people of the north have kept pretty cool during these troubles so far, but there is a deep, suppressed feeling, which will, when crowded too far towards the wall, turn upon these miserable, cowardly assassins, and sweep them and their slave institution from the face of the earth.

MR. KELLOGG AND HIS CONSTITUENTS .-Judge Kellogg, elected as a republican from the 4th district of Illinois, recently introduced a compromise in congress, similar to that of Mr. Crittenden's. His constituents met in congressional convention at Peoria, on Friday, and repudiated his compromise by a unanimous vote. The district was fully represented. They also adopted a resolution, declaring that the laws must be executed, the public property protected, and the Union preserved at whatever hazard .--The action of Mr. Kellogg's constituents is such a rebuke to this unworthy representative that he ought to resign immediately.-It is a warning to all traitors to their principles, and those who are plotting a base surrender of them, that the people of the west are everywhere prepared to give them the same condemnation that Mr. Kellogg has received from his constituents.

CLOSED UP .- The recess of the legislature closes to-morrow. When the play-day when the members again assembled, they and ridicule. would "go to work in earnest." We hope this promise will be fulfilled, for surely nobody has been overworked during the session thus far.

The Madison Patriot asks some smart questions for a catch, and insists upon a direct answer, yes or no. It will not permit any explanation. We beg leave to say that we are not on the witness stand, and the editor of the Patriot is not a lawyer in court asking us questions, with power to compel a categorical, answer. We intend to explain our replies to suit ourselves, not with the expectation or intention of pleasing the Patriot. If we are asked, "would you kill your neighbor rather than submit to an injustice?" we could not answer directly, but must enquire what injustice is meant. If he meant to make a slave of us, or commit highway robbery upon us, we would say yes; but if it is something much less than this, we might answer, no. The Patriot, however, would demand an unequivocal answer, and calls it fair-we don't, and herein we disagree. We think we have replied to all the important queries of the Patriot, and it may make the most of what we have said.

A DEGENERATED COMMONWEALTH,-Virginia, once the honored Mother of Presidents has degenerated into the maternity of a thieving member of the cabinet, blackguard members of congress and a large brood of blue-cockade clerks in the federal departments. She unites the poverty of the beggar with the insolence of the slave-driver and the treason of the secessionist.-Too arrogant to know her weakness and degradation, she is too insignificant for conciliation and too contemptible for revenge.

Cultivate the row the first year about as you would a row of corn; that is, enough to keep the weeds down. Use the hoc among the plants for the same purpose .---Under ordinary care, in usually favorable seasons, most of the plants will live, for the Osage is really very tenacious of life; if any die, set out large, vigorous ones in June which have been selected, at the time of planting, for this purpose. Such plants may be kept in a cool cellar safely till June. In the fall, go along with the plow and throw a light furrow up against the plants on each side; follow in the furrow a second time after this, going a little deeper, and then a third deeper still—making three furrows in width on each side. This forms a safe winter protection, and is always needed in the northwest. In southern Illinois and ing tehmselves in their princely habitations. in Missouri, where the winters are less severe, they may not require this precantion

Cultivate again next year to keep the weeds and grass in subjection. The ing spring the bed should be seeded with a heavy coating of blue grass and clover .-Let the straggling weeds be pulled up during the season.
As before indicated, the Osage is a tender plant in the north until it has gone through a certain amount of acclimation. The leading object is and always must be to make it hardy. To do this, let the roots get the best possible hold upon the soil.—

Do not clip at all until the spring of the third year, that is, not until after two years' growth in the soil. Then sweep the whole line smooth with the ground, cut off the tops with a bush scythe or some similar imple ment quite down below all the buds. This may be done as early in the spring as the weather appears favorable for general farm work, or may be delayed until the sap be gins to start and the buds expand. The roots have the power of obtaining a large amount of sap. This is favorable, for you want a fence by this time without much more delay. It has not cost you much care nor outlay thus far, and you are ouly asked to wait a few weeks or months, perhaps longer, for a fully established hedge. After cutting the row close to the ground in the spring, as soon as the free circulation of sap takes place, several young shoots will be forced out from each stump. Every plant will give from five to ten.of the peace convention adjourn, and in its these shoots. They will rise with great raplace let 50,000, true men assemble, with pidity, and at each leaf will stand a thorn as pointed and hard as can be produced by plant growth. The height they will attain the first season may vary from three to five feet, according to the vigor of the plant. The strength of the soil in which they stand and condition of the seasons, as being favorable or unfavorable for growth. Sometimes a single shoot from the Osage Orange grows to the height of ten to fifteen feet in one season. Just as soon as the whole row attains the height of a cow's head, it will form a barrier against horned cattle. Horses are in perfect dread of the sharp spires, and seldom make a second attempt upon the young row. Fat hogs are the most roublesome creatures to a hedge. They do not feel the sting of the thorns upon their mass of obesity, and will disregard the best hedge, unless the plants are set so near to-gether that they cannot push their way through them. Lean hogs are more sensitive to the thorns, and more easily fenced against by hedges. Sheep never trouble them, except those made of such shrubs as they like to brouse upon; but the Osage has a sticky, acrid juice which few animals will touch, aside from the dread of thorns Chicago Times.

> SINGULAR LIBER SUIT.-A libel suit which elicited considerable interest, was tried last week in the Jefferson county cir cuit court. The action was originally com-menced in Dodge county, by Mr. R. Farnsworth of Oak Grove, against S. H. Bur hams and C. G. Scott.

As we have learned the case, the defend ants were the publishers of a map of Dodge county, and in soliciting subscribers, repre sented that the map should show the loca-tion of each farm with the name of the owner printed upon the same. The plaintiff owns a farm in Cak Grove. The defendants solicited him to subscribe: the plaintiff declined; and thereupon the defendants, instead of giving to the plaintiff his true name upon the map, published thereupon a ridiculous nickname, for the purpose of was ordered, the promise was given that making the plaintiff an object of contempt

FLAX A SUBSTITUTE FOR COTTON .- Stephen M. Allen has been writing a series of articles to the Boston Courier in which he takes the ground that flax can be advantageously substituted for cotton. His main positions are summed up as follows by him-

In conclusion, allow me to say that flax can be raised in any of the northern states, at a profit to the farmer. That it is not an exhaustive crop when cultivated preparatory to the new system for manufacturing fibrilia." That it can be cottonized in Massachusetts (whether the linten is raised in this state or in the west,) at a cost which when added to the cost of the linten, shall be less than cotton. That all yarns or cloths made from it, either of pure flax or mixed with cotton, are stronger than as though made of cotton alone, and in every respect better. That from present appearances, any quantity of flax which may be wanted will be produced in the north, as fast as the machinery can be made to work it up; and that the state of Ohio alone can raise more "fibrilia" than the whole cotton crop of the south.

Another writer, E. H. Derby, says: In the ordinary culture of flax, the great expense is after the plant has ripened .-Five-sixths of the expenses are incurred in preparing the ripened flax by the old and wearisome process for the spindle. This I am assured is avoided by the new process, and the crop requiring little more care than a field of corn, by horse power harvested like hay, and then threshed and broken by mechanism, is by solvents then converted into flax cotton, and afforded to the manufacturers, as I am credibly informed, at 8 cents per pound. The results in Indiana and Ohio show that vast tracts of land are cultivated for the seed only, and that 15 bushels of flax seed, with nothing from the straw, annually pay the cultivator better

The new process converts the refuse straw John Slidell, the Louisiana senator, who into 1900 pounds of linten, a textile material worth $30 to $40, and into a ton and a quarter more of shives, stated to be nearly as valuable as hay, for feeding stock, and worth $20 more.

If the cultivator in Indiana and Ohio can afford to raise flax for the seed (and the best flax is raised in the colder climate of Belgium-Belgium, whose land is worth $200 per acre,) it is safe to say that the crop here will not impoverish the farmer, f he can get $50 or $60 more for the crop than the farmer of Ohio, besides a higher price for his seed than the farmer in Ohio.

In Montreal the skating pond, or ring, is roofed over, so as to prevent it being covered with snow. It is lighted at night, and attends. The ladies frequent it, wearing short dresses, looped up so as to be out of quarts wheat flour. This will make four the way, and Turkish trowsers.

Correspondence of the Daily Gazette. MESSRS. EDITORS :- Rock prairie is beau' tiful to look at now, robed in a dress of white, with black specks dotting the surface all over. Wheat stacks, barns, (groaning under the load that fills some of their spacious halls, I mean mostly oats, and a little wheat for grist, the "'tother" wheat being in the stack,) orchards, groves of wood, &c., and lastly white houses, the imitation of that house that will soon, I hope, be occupied by the people's man, President Lincoln, the man that at the present time fills the hearts of the Rock Prairie people. But I was going to say that the monarchs of this glorious prairie, sitting and enjoyreading the latest news from the Gazette and Free Press, is a happy people; how long to remain so time alone must tell. There is a sentiment prevailing over this rairie, that come what will, they will do heir best to maintain the rights of the country and the constitution.

Snow, snow, "when will a thaw come." s the remark of neighbors when they meet, stuck up to their knees in a "drift," while the remarks of our wives and daughters is something to the point. "No thrashing now," "pity," "my dress is getting old, can't get a new one." O! ye fair daughters of Eve, among all your sublime virtues do not throw away patience. When "threshing is done" ye shall get dresses to your hearts content, and when we come home with our new new coats and bring the glad tidings that wheat is $1 for every bushel, and one thousand lying in the barn, then it is that we will tell you to come into our buggy and ride to Janesville, and buy to your hearts content, not only dresses, but verything that can please your eye, deight your taste or suit your fancy. Therefore I say again, have patience, and do not blame vour worthy sires and affectionate husbands; but rather blame the white flakes that full from above. I hope for your dear sakes the last will soon fall and that glorious spring will usher in peace and : good will between north and south, you and us, and every one that desires it.

A prospectus is issued of a Jamaica cotnowever, that it will prove a floating sarcophagus, and certainly, if history is any cacher or experience any guide, we may predict for this scheme the same fate which efell the batteries and rafts which were employed at the siege of Gibraltariin the year of 1781. A French engineer, the Chevalier D'Arcon, invented batteries with which he was certain he could capture the Rock. Ships were cut down and walled with timber buge rafts were made of the same solidity, indestructible by fire, lined with sand and cork, and so arranged as to be kept constantly wet. Roofs and sides were to throw off the glancing shot, and the latter, mounted with heavy cannon, were relied upon with confidence by the assailants. After some hours' firing, however, a raft on which the Prince of Nassau was stationed, took fire, and the French engineer, who was on board, perceived that his huge and unwields machine, covered with bull hides, cow hides and ox hides, began to smoke, and soon after the whole fleet and flotilla, rafts and batteries were burned or knocked to The rafts could not be moved from their places, and became the grave-yard of Such will be the fate of the Charleston raft as soon as it is towed, if it can be, within the range of the hot shot of Fort Sumter. On so large an object every shot will tell.—N. Y. Evening Post.

HUNGARIAN GRASS VS. CHINCH BUGS-Conn.—Last season I planted corn along side of fall wheat. I discovered a great many chinch bugs on the wheat. Having seen a statement that Hungarian grass would keep them out of corn, I left a nar row strip between wheat and corn, and about the first of June sowed Hungarian grass, thick. At the cutting of the wheat the bugs left for the corn, but they did not get to it, although they were so thick that they could be scraped up by handfulls.—
They did not get in the Hungarian grass more than two feet. I think a strip ten feet wide is a sure protection to corn. H. B. SHERMAN.

A Conspiracy to Assassinate Mr. Lincoln Discovered.

Prevented by Going Through Baltimore in Disguise.

New York, Feb. 23-9 P. M. Special correspondent to the New York Times says: Thursday night after he had retired, Mr. Lincoln was aroused and in formed that a stranger desired to see him on a matter of life or death. He declined to admit him unless he gave his name which he at once did. Such prestige did the name carry that while Mr. Lincoln was vet disrobed he granted an interwiew to the raller. A prolonged conversation elicited the fact that an organization of men had determined that Mr. Lincoln should not be inaugurated, and that he should never leave the city of Baltimore if indeed he ever en tered it.

The list of names of conspirators pre sented a most astonishing array of persons high in southern confidence, and some whose fame is not confined to this country alone. Statesmen laid the plan, bankers endorsed it, and adventurers were to carry it into effect. As they understood Mr. Lincoln was to leave Harrisburg at 9 o'clock this morning, by a special train, the idea was, if possible to throw the train from the road at some point where they could rush down a steep embankment and destroy in a moment the lives of all on board.

In case of a failure in this attempt their plan was to surround the carriage on the way from the depot in Baltimore and assas sinate him with a dagger or pistols. So authentic was the source through which the information was obtained that Mr. Lincoln nnon counselling with his friends, was com elled to make arrangements that would en able him to subvert the plans of his ene-mies. Greatly to the annoyance of thousands who intended to call on him last night, he declined to give a reception.

The final council was held at 8 o'clock Mr. Lincoln did not want to yield, and Col. Sumner actually cried with indignation, but Mrs. Lincoln, seconded by Mr. Judd and Mr. Lincoln's informant, insisted upon it, and at 9 o'clock Mr. Lincoln left on a spe cial train. He wore a plaid shawl and a long military cloak, so that he was entirely unrecognizable. He was accompanied b sheriff Lewis and one friend. He started while all the town with the exception of Mrs. Lincoln, Col. Sumner, Mr. Judd and two reporters, who were sworn to secrecy supposed him asleep. Money is wanted to establish a body guard to Gen'l Scott, to resist Jeff. Davis and ex-Gov. Wise. This remark was met with hisses, and Mr. Garnett said serpents were the proper cause of the downfall of this corrupt government.

A large crowd awaited the arrival of the train bringing the president's party. Mr. Wood announced that Lincoln was hoard. He then introduced Robert Lincols who stood beside him, much to the latter At 11:40 the train passed the Maryland boundary. The committee from Baltimore joined the party at Harrisburgh. They a very indignant at the want of confidence evinced by Mr. Lincoln's course, though it is understood he was opposed to it, but was overruled by those who have assumed control of his movements.

A crowd blocked up all the Calvert Street Deput, and on the arrival of the train greeted it with groans on learning that Lincoln was not on board.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23. This evening's Bulletin contains a dis patch from Washington to the effect that in the peace conference, Mr. Chase, of Ohio, offered a proposition that it is inexpedient to proceed to the consideration of the grave matters involved in the resolutions of ginia, until all the states participate, and that time may be afforded.

It is resolved that the committee adjourn to the 4th day of March. An exciting debate occurred, but there is a prospect of its adoption. TERRE HAUTE, Feb. 23. N. B. Markle, route agent on the T. H. A. & St. L. R. R., was arrested to-day by a special agent of the post office department, for robbery of the mail. He was immediately taken to Springfield, Ill. New York, Feb. 22.

A despatch from Washington to the Post says the president has countermanded the order for the parade of the army forces to-day, and also the order for firing National salutes, to satisfy the secessionists.

Washington, Feb. 22. Federal troops paraded this P.M., apart from district military, but in detached bodies, not in mass as contemplated by official programme. There has been countermand of orders. Flying artillery fired salutes at three different points in the city. Peace conference did not conclude business as anticipated. Time occupied in speeches .-Col. S. S. English, appointed surveyor of customs, Louisville.

Washington, Feb. 25. Secretary Dix has recently issued the ollowing order:

John G. Brushwood, a captain in the revenue service, having, while in command of the revenue cutter Robert McClelland, violated his official oath and his duty to the government, by surrendering his vessel to the state of Louisiana, and S. B. Caldwell and Thos. Deverest, lieutenants under his command, having been parties to the surrender, it is hereby directed that their names be stricken from the rolls of said

Secretary of the Col. C. K. Stephenson, president of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, has arrived in Washington. Before he left Paris he made preliminary arrangements for building the road, but the contract cannot be closed during the preset troubles of the country.

A distinguished Alabamian, who was identified with the Bell party, but who is now a secessionist, writes to a friend in this city—" You may suppose that there is a chance to rebuild the Union which has been torn down. There is none. Not only s there no possibility of such an event, but we do not believe that the north will give us any substantial guarantee, and we could not trust them if they did. The iden that seems to have taken possession of the peace congress, as it is called, that we will be sat is fied with the prohibition north of 36° 30 and squatter sovereignty south of that line is a gross insult to our understanding. - Be assured we have no idea of accepting any such terms. The truth is, and our friends outside of the second states ought to be apprised of the fact, we have lost all hope of an amicable adjustment, and are looking to the bayonet as the final arbitration of AHis lectures upon Japan have elicited the warmest testimonials and commendation from eminent ministers and collegiate and theological professors of all denominations in this country. He preached yesterday in the pulpit of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches with great acceptance, and his lecture in the afternoon to the children, on 'Japanese children and schools,' was listened to with unabated interest and pleasure by a crowded audience.

He lectures to-night in the Presbyterian church on his experience and observation in Japan. Seats are free, but a collection will be taken up at the close.

He will lecture on Japanese manners, laws, religion, scenery, etc., on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. At these two lectures there will be the small charge of ten cents at the door. The collection on Monday evening, and charge at the door on other evenings, is simply to meet expenses, and as a slight remuneration to the lecturer. All should go that can, and embrace this opportunity to hear a delightful and instructive lecture on an exceedingly interesting theme.

ACCIDENTS .- The Mineral Point Tribune of the 13th inst., says Mr. Henry Noble, a worthy and respectable citizen of the town Waldwrick, was lately frezen to death. He had been in to Mineral Point, and had started for home towards evening. He was found about a mile from home, lying by the side of a fence.

The Geneva Mirror says that on Wednesday of last week Mr. A. C. Wheeler, of Linn, was thrown from his sleigh and received an ugly cut on the head. It is not supposed to be a fatal injury. He was running horses at the time of the accident. A PROFITABLE SPECULATION.—During the "good times" when railroad and land speculations were at their height, and Prairie du Chien was, through the Milwaukee and Mississippi road, to rival or eclipse St. Louis as a river "point," a large hotel costing $40,000 was built at the prospective city by a company of zealous speculators in Milwaukee. Before it was finished, the collapse came on, and it was never, we believe, occupied. Recently, it has been sold on a mechanics' lien for about $1,700. As there is no redemption from a mechanics' lien, the stockholders in the hotel are as. badly "scooped" as the stockholders in the

> For the Daily Guzette. A Valentine. SECRSSIONIST TO BLAVERY,

My own beloved slavery, Too idol of my heart, The price I've paid for thee, must tell How dear to me thou art, For thes, I've sold my birthright, A fair, unsulled name; For thee my soul is wearing The perjurer's dark stain. Yet for the love I bear thee, Still more. I'd venture aven. For thee, I'd sell my country; And for thee, barter heaven.

Thou can'st not bear the light, love, So, from our southern home We'll banish all the sunbeams, Nor shall the moonlight come To blight the mushroom verdure: What charms can soul divine From wiedom's fanes, or scionce draw. To match such charms as thine?

We're building up an empire, love. From out the nation's rains, love. And thou shalt be our queen. Some lovers talk of silken bands, That bind two willing hearts, My love a stronger cord demands, A chain that nover parts, Of strongest metal, on thy wrists,
My gentle one, Pil bind,
And I will wear the chains with thee, That all may know I'm kind : Not on my wrists shall they be bound, But round my heart and brain Their heavy links are folded fast, And there they shall remain; For long I've loved thee, and thy dower Of ease, and power, and pride, And on this day of Valentine's, My gentle, loving bride,

While other geeso their partners take, I've chosen thee for mine, And promise, through all time to be Thy Loving Valentine.

For the Gazette and Free Press. A CARD.—The friends near Emerald Grove came together at my house, on last Wednesday, the 20th, afternoon and evening, for a donation visit. These annual festivals are becoming chronic in this community. We had a beautiful day, and a very pleasant time generally. The friends left behind them about one hundred dollars worth of good things for our benefit, more than half in money, which is a great ralief in this time of pecuniary pressure. Will you allow me to express our grateful acknowledgements through your paper, which is so generally taken in this society, and much oblige, Yours,

O. F. CURTIS AND FAMILY.

HEADAGHE is the favorite sign by which nature makes known any deviation whatever from the natural state of the brain, and riewed in this light it may be looked on as a safeguard intended to give notice of disease which might otherwise escape attention, till too late to be remedied; and its indications should never be neglected. Headaches may be classified under two names, viz: Symptomatic and Iriopathic. Symptomatic headache is exceedingly common and is the precursor of a great variety of diseases; among which are Apoplexy, toot, Ekbeuparlism and all fabrile diseases: In its nervous form it is symptantic of disease of the stomach constituting sitch headache, of hepatic disease constituting bitless headache, of worms, constituting and other disorders of the bowels, as well as renal and uterine at fections. Diseases or the heart are vory frequently attended with headaches; Anamia and picthora are also affections which frequently consion beadache. Idiopathic headache is also very common, being usually distinguished by the name of nervous headache, containes coming on suddonly in a state of apparantly sound health and prostrating at once the mental and physical energies, and in other instances it comes on slowly; herabled by depression of spirits or accibity of temper. In most instances the pain is in the front of the head, over one or both eyes, and sometimes provoking voniting; under this class may and be much sease of healing the unest soute pains in a few minutes, and by its subtle power exadicating the diseases of which headache is the unerring index.

Constipution or Costiveness.

No one of the "many dis flost is heir to" is so prevalent, so little understool, and so much neglected as costiveness. Often originating in carelessues, or sedenary habits; it is regarded at a slight disorder of colittle consequence to excite saxiety, white in reality it is the precusor and companion of many of the most fatal and dangerous diseases, and unless early oradicated it will bring the sufferer to an untimely grave. Among the lighter evils of which costiveness is the usual attendant pre Headaole, Colic, Bheumatism, Foul Breath, Piles and others of like nature, while a long train of frightful diseases such as Malignant Fevers, Abcasse, Dysentary, Diarrhea, Dyspepsia, Apoplexy, Epilepsy, Paralysis, Hysteria, Hypochondrissis, Melancholy and Insentry, first indicate their presence in the system by this alarming symptom. Not unfrequently the diseases named originate in Constipation, but take on an independent existence unless the cause is eradicated in an early singe. From all those considerations it follows that the theorder should receive inneediate attention whenever it occurs, and no person should neglect to get a box of Cophalic Pills on the first appearance of the complaint, as their timely use will experience to box an approaches of disease and destroy this dangerous foe to human like. No one of the "many ills flosh is heir to" is so preva

TWENTI MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SAVED.—Mr. Spidding has sold two millions of bottles of his celebrated Prepared Glue, and it is estimated that each bottle saves at least ten dollars worth of broken furniline, thus making an aggregate of twenty millions of dollars reclaimed from total loss by this valuable invention. Baving mude his glue a household, word, he now propose to do the world still greater service by enring all the aching heads with his Cephalle Pills, and if they are as good as his glue, headache will soon vanish away like snow in July.

SINGER'S Shuttle Machine, with all the latest Improvements, may be obtained at the residence of Mrs. Ym. Addy, corner of Frauklin and Wall sis, near, the liyat House. This machine is warranted to be appeared to any other in market, for all kinds of family sawing. Mrs. A., from her thorough acquaintance with this and the other kinds in may, leels entire conditional recommending this to her friends and the public, as possessing experior advantages, as the will be ready to demonstrate to the satisfaction of those who may favor her with a cell. Persons desirous of purchasing, are invited to call and examine for themselves. As a further tuducoment, Mrs. A. offers gratuitous instruction in the use of the machine to those who purchase of her; all necessary instruction to camble a person of ordinary capacity to operate the machine successfully can be given in the short space of one hour. Price, from $45, $55 mg to $100, according to size. Hemmers, Gauges and Needley Lapt With the machine. MRS. WM. ADDY. Janesville, Oct. 19th. 1860. E Over Excitement, and the monici care and an ED OVER EXCITEMENT, and the monthle care and auxiliary incident to close attention to business or study, are among the numerous causes of norvous headache. The disordered state of mind and body incident to this distinction. Surferers by this disorder can always obtain speedy relief from these distressing attacks, by using one of the Cephalic Pills whenever the synghoms appear. It quiets the overtasked brain, and soothes the strained and farring nerves, and relaxes the tension of the stomest which always accompanies and aggravates the disordered condition of the brain.

FACT WHATH KNOWING.—Spalding's Cephalic Pills are a certain cure for Sick Headache, Billous Headache, Nervous Headache, Costiveness and General Debility.

GREAT DISCOVERY.—Among the most important of all the great medical discoveries of this age may be considered, the system of vaccination for protection from Small Fox, the Copinatic Pill for relief of headache, and the nac of Quinine for the prevention of fevers, either of which is a arre specific, whose bouchts will be experienced by suffering humanity long after their discoverers are forgetten.

Do you ever have the sick beadache? Do you remember the throbbing temples, the fevered brow, the leathing and disgust at the sight of food. How totally units you were for pleasure, conversation or study.—One of the Cephalic Pills would have relieved you from all the suffering which you then experienced. For this and other purposes you should always have a box of them on hand to use as occasion requires.

By the use of these pills the periodic attacks of Nor wais or Sick Headlacks may be prevented; and if taken at the commencement of an attack immediate relief from pain and sickness will be obtained. They seldom fail in removing Newsea and Headach
